

UTOPIAN GAME LABS ACADEMY

Vocational Video Games QA Course

We are a group of game developers who have developed a vocational course in QA for video games. We know how hard it has been for many people in the last year, but the games industry has been doing well.

We have created this course to give anyone with an interest in video games the chance to start a new career through games testing.

Our course has been developed by games professionals who work in the industry. The course provides an opportunity to work on real games which then adds experience to your CV. We are also working closely with our friends in other game studios to guarantee that you get a job interview after successfully completing the course.

This course is for people everywhere and from all walks of life. People working in hospitality, travel or leisure can explore the opportunities available in the games industry. People already involved in the performing and creative arts can look to the fastest growing sector in the creative industries which has much in common with music, film and theatre.

The opportunities are endless…

Read More • Enquire • Enrol at UGLA.uk